In Honor of Ray E. Shirley

This book is dedicated to Mr. Shirley by the 1974 Charger staff to show their appreciation for being the yearbook advisor this past year and for the many years before that. Mr. Shirley was more than an advisor to the staff, he was a person on which the staff could depend upon. He was an advisor that understood the problems of putting together a yearbook and he helped to lessen these problems. We wish him a lot of luck in the future and hope that some day he will again return to SFTHS to be the yearbook advisor.

MOMENTS NOT DAYS

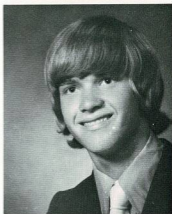

The year 1974 finally became a reality. Just yesterday the seniors were freshmen, wandering helplessly down the mysterious new high school halls, afraid of what might be around the next corner. Suddenly the class of "74" was ordering graduation announcements.

Each of us remember those special things about high school--the favorite class, Prom, that certain guy or girl, the mystery meat of the week lunches for 55¢, Senior Sneak Day and other activities.

The next and final corner was graduation. Who could forget graduation? The last memory of four years of work and fun. Once again we the seniors found ourselves in a new world.

Prom Is the Juniors Task for the Year.

Juniors at last! They've nearly reached their goal to be seniors. But there was one year, 1973-74, to be lived through first, and it held much for the Class of '75. Selling magazines to earn money for Prom was the first project. The whole class strived to make the Prom a success. They'll always remember the history, gov't., English, and science classes. And at the end of the year they found out they survived their junior year, only to go to something larger and better -- senior year.

Sophomores Achieve Honors in Academics And Sports.

After a year of "probation" the sophomores finally achieved status in sports and academics. They could join junior varsity teams and even were eligible to play on varsity teams if the coaches saw fit. At mid-term many were invited to join National Honor Society in recognition of their outstanding performance in their classes.

The majority of the sophomores took the usual classes, like English, biology, math, and typing. Boys and girls went their separate ways in shop and home economics though some did it vice-versa. In March they ordered class rings in preparation of becoming upperclassmen.

Overall the sophomores had an enjoyable year and earned their places in being leaders in their class and in SFTHS.

Freshmen Begin Their Four Years.

Stuck lockers, classes not needed or wanted, seven classes a day, being ribbed by the upperclassmen - all of it was part of being a freshman. And it was great to be in high school!

It was relatively new to most of the freshmen, and they had to learn to watch out for themselves and yet become known to their own classmates from the other two towns and to the upperclassmen.

Phys. Ed., math, and English were the basic classes that they took. Some added science, foreign languages, or art.

And by the end of the year they look back and saw how it was, wishing it could always be the same. And yet they look forward to the next three years still with the locker that won't open.

Senior Class Will

Members of the Junior Class, we are gathered here tonight to pay tribute to the Senior Class. I only heard the tragic news this morning. It's very unfortunate that while taking their Senior Trip to California, the plane crashed and there were no survivors. Now, are there any questions before we proceed with the willing of the Seniors' most valuable possessions?

We'll start with Tom Tucker. TOM TUCKER wills his success as a Pork Producer of America to Daniel Pratt, and hopes that Daniel's sister will one day become Pork Queen. And may I say, knowing his sister, she probably will make it.

TOM LANG, rest his soul, wills his ability to make out in the halls and not get caught to Steve McBurney.

CLIFF O'BRYHIM wills his extracurricular activities in the dark room to Jim Duncan, maybe he can "cobb" something.

... SFT Defeats Arch Rival Baldwin.

The football season again had its ups and downs as the Chargers ended their season with a 1-8 record. Their one win was over arch rival Baldwin, 8-6. The year saw many improvements in the team's playing. And though 1973 was a disappointing year, the Chargers will hold high hopes for the 1974 season to come.

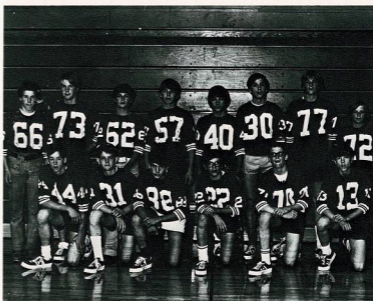

Charger football players put forth a lot of effort in every game.

We had a lot of players close in ability. Our strong point was in depth. As long as we had that depth we won some ball games.

I think that this year provided the sophomores the opportunity to play a lot of ball and improve a lot.

SFT Students Revive the 50's.

SFTHS student body had a 50's day on Friday, April 5th. Students and several of the faculty members dressed the way they did back in the 50's.

Some of the girls had on dresses that came past the knees. Some of the boys had on the rolled up pants with their hair greased back.

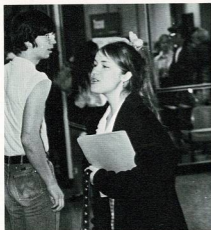

Stan Friesen and Debbie Johnson were chosen as the "best-dressed" couple, and Angie Alcorn and John Lines were selected as the "best dancing" couple at the Sadie Hawkins' Dance, 50's style.

The contest nominees were selected by the band, "Blue Moon," and were presented to the SFTHS student body. The contest winners were then determined by student applause.

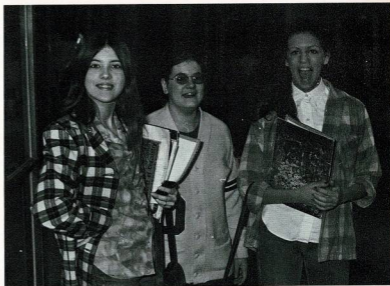

Decoration of ballons, streamers, and 50's slogans were put up by the seniors. The refreshments were provided by the sophomores.

"Hey Karen, look up!"

"Ron, baby!"

"Now just a minute, Cliff!!"

"Sentimental Journey" Reviews the Past

"Sentimental Journey", a musical, was presented by the Santa Fe Trail High School vocal music department on May 15.

The musical featured songs from the '40's, '50's, '60's, and '70's, and also a sneak preview of the future. The settings were a malt shoppe scene from the '40's and '50's, a '60's and '70's concert, and a glittering malt shoppe scene of the future. This musical showed how today's music evolved from our parents' music. The audience, filled with old memories, openly responded to such acts as the jitter buggers, bunny hop, Elvis, the Beatles, and many of the songs of their teen-age years.

"Man, those lights really get to ya!"

The Juniors and Seniors had a big night May 11. To start the evening off a delicious banquet was served to the guests. The prophecy was read by Deb Eylander and the will read by Mary Vawter and Jack Parrish.

The dance started at 8:30 p.m. and lasted until 11:30 p.m. with the Exceptions playing. All in all, it was a very enjoyable evening!

Graduation Is Seniors' Final Activity.

Graduation! It was the final experience for the Class of '74. On May 23 at 8 P.M. the seniors began their final journey, the one to the stage for their diplomas, and in a little more than an hour it would be over.

The processional, "Pomp and Circumstance", was played by Reta Hamman and Carol Fischer. Rev. Dale Eflin, Overbrook, gave the invocation. Mr. Norris the vocal music instructor at SFT, sang a solo, "Time is My Friend", to the graduating seniors.

Special awards were given to Janet Greenwood, Valedictorian; Donna Rowe, Salutatorian; Janice Shelton, Outstanding

Senior Girl; and Dan Holmberg, Outstanding Senior Athlete. Donna Rowe and Janet Greenwood gave the addresses.

Mr. Ming, principal, presented the class, and Mr. Sloan, superintendent, accepted the class. Dean Tucker, Earl Rowe, Jr., and Allen Kemble, members of the school board, presented the diplomas.

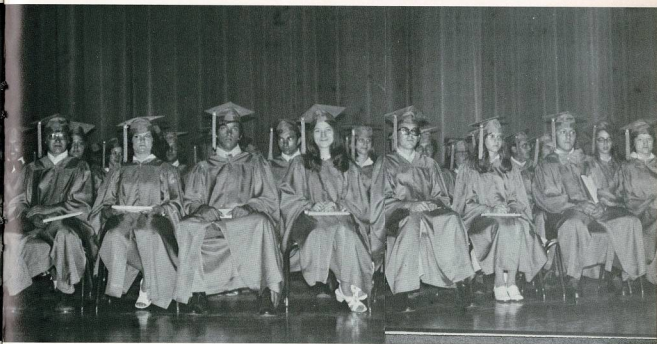

Rev. Elfin gave the benediction. The seniors marched out to the reception line to receive the congratulations of friends and family.

Ushers for graduation and baccalaureate were Patti Rice, Ron Fike, Diane Karr, and Brent Little.

AN HOUR UPON THE STAGE

The fall of seventy that part began,
for me at least.
Entering the halls (halls that were/are nothing without people; people nothing still without their thoughts) with preconceived ideas concerning teachers, friends, and locker combinations (there were no locks, by the way, at least not on lockers).
Surmounting fear and anticipation led the way to cold nights on the football field, not having time to think of the broken finger and muddy aching legs spotted with cleat marks.
Thinking, wishing that the bleachers would vanish.
Just myself and two friends
-maybe threespilling emotion in the sweating pounding swirl of swift, colorfilled, muscle-bone movement.
But, that's over (I'll miss them now and then.)
Dance came and the girls primped late-asked dates, never quite making it.
She thinking of some boy in an exaggerated love lost past.
And always the auburn-hair beauty with dollar-size green eyes

My deepest gratitude to those who helped to make this yearbook possible and my best wishes to all. Celia over which were spent many an afternoon in quiet contemplation (even a couple of poems spent).

She couldn't-wouldn't See me as hers maybe because I did not wear golden ear rings.
So there were books to get lost in.
Absolutely soaked in Faulkners deep-felt gut-reaching harmonies or possibly Hesse's carefree soul searching (wine guzzling) escapades.
If feeling too comfortable jumped into some of Vonnegut's deep-rooted pessimism (that will drag anyone down).
Looking up again,
still there were people.
All the fracas nothing without knowing-loving people.
Not just one girl or two but every person whose head one could somehow grasp
-help heal-maybe heal oneself (redemption?).
And the thoughts laid open for public not inspection
but understanding.
To muse upon After all the books dances football games halls-lockers dirty gym clothes...
All went for nothing
if lacking people-love.
In the spring of seventy-four that part ended, out of cars the most.

JULIE SIMPSON wills her outgoing loudness to Debbie Rodman.

REBECCA ALLISON wills her Lady Godiva hair to someone who is thinking of streaking.

EVELYN LYTER wills her long fingernails to Pat Hesse, hoping he and Sonny will make a better couple.

JERRY STARKEBAUM wills his cowboy boots to Terry Combes.

DIANE BADGER wills her ability to always look her best while on the job to Robin Willyard.

LINDA ADOLPH wills her ability to graduate, without getting married, to her younger sisters.

DON NEILSON wills his school ghost to Pat Hesse.

GENE ZEIGLER wills his Honda to Duane Kitchens.

JANET GREENWOOD wants to will Ray to Eva Riley, because she knows that Eva will just give him back.

JOHN MOORE wills his curly hair to Mr. Ming, in hopes it will become thinner.

MIKE NEIL wills his fighting ability to Ed Reece, and his disrespectful hat to Mr. White.

JOE TUCKER wills his purity to Doug Weir.

GERALD KEETING wills his black bomb to David Forbes. I think he means that old piece of junk he calls a car.

As a finish the Seniors have a little poetic note, To the school we say farewell, and to the Juniors we say give 'em hell!
